What does meaningful even mean?

“New approaches to learning and research necessitate different roles for libraries if they are to be relevant to the institutional mission.”

(Cox, 2018, p. 237)

At the Frisco Campus Library,
we considered:

- Similar goals
- Consultation services both departments provide
- Commitment from both departments
- Established presence on campus
- Support from library staff

NO ONE HAS IT ALL

(but you should have at least three of these)

Available (library) staff members

Departments with similar interests as your own

Individuals you connect with

Library administrative support

"Ideally, partnerships should be selected in an intentional way, considering campus community needs and priorities and what is most likely to support student success."

(Eriksen & Watstein, 2020)

 - Tea parties
 - Pastry showcase
 - Gingerbread House/Cake displays

Pastry Book Display

Coinciding with a Spring Pastry showcase provided by the Culinary Department at the Frisco Campus

What services do other libraries provide?

04 |

Let's keep this going?

STANDARD MAINTENANCE

Maintain the health and vitality of interdepartmental relationships by ensuring continued discourse during inactive times

Faculty video

Writing Workshops

Meet & Greetings

BE PATIENT!

Beyond the basic maintenance that goes into sustaining a partnership, it is also necessary to practice mindfulness and awareness of ongoing collaborative efforts.

(change is gradual)

What service do you already have and can bring in a partner for?

05 |

How can we measure
our success?

METRICS, METRICS, METRICS

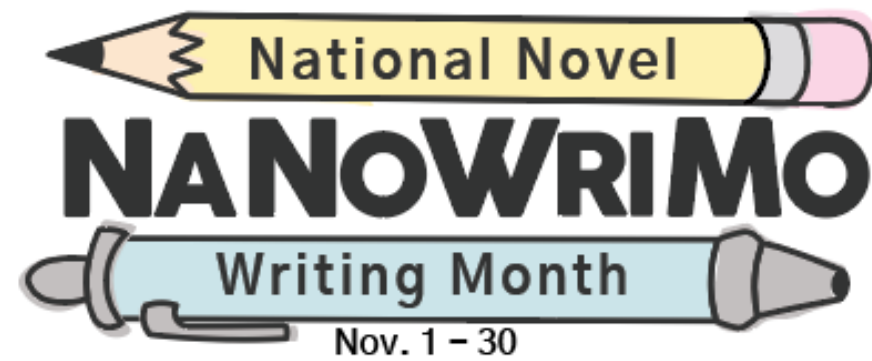

With metrics, "librarians demonstrate that they are partners in promoting student learning"

(Farkas, 2013, p. 16)

USE METRICS TO

- Decide which events to continue
- Justify budget
- Adapt to changing needs and desires of students and staff
