Minimum Technology: Netiquette: Please act like a socially responsible adult.

Method of Evaluation: The grading policy is as follows: Writing 40%, Test/Quiz 40%, Classwork 10%, Writing Lab 10%. Writing is all major projects and essays. Test and quiz is all formal assessments. Classwork consists of any exercises done in class; this consists of graphic organizers, groups work in class, discussion boards and worksheets. Writing lab is explained in this document.

Attendance Policy: If you miss more than five classes your grade could be listed as an attendance failure. Please contact me and in advance for extended absences. All work is listed in canvas and students are responsible for accessing the information and assignments during their missed time. All work is due the second class back, unless other arrangements are made.

Acceptance of Late Work: Late work is accepted up to three days after due date. All work loses ten points a day until end of third day; after the third day all work will be marked zero.

Plagiarism policy: Any instance will be marked a ten in the grade book. If this occurs more than once, the student will fail the course.

Violations to the Code of Conduct include scholastic dishonesty. If a student violates the code of conduct by plagiarizing or cheating, the instructor may choose to submit a Student Incident Report to the Dean of Students office. Here is a link to the electronic student incident form:

<https://k1.caspio.com/dp.asp?AppKey=eaab3000114b800ca9d8443991b1>

If you submit an incident report for suspected plagiarism, you will submit the student paper as documentation, and a determination will be made regarding the plagiarism. You will receive a report via email. If the student is found “not responsible” for plagiarism, you may then grade the assignment and apply the grade as your grading protocol dictates. If the student is found “responsible” for plagiarism, apply your policy in dealing with the incident.

Religious Holy Days: I support and respect your right to worship a God of your choosing. Please notify me in advance of any holy days you observe, so that we can discuss the lesson plan for that day. My class is a safe space and I celebrate my students’ individualism, culture, and relationships with a God of their understanding.

English Composition 1301 and 1302 Lab Requirement Course Component

Writing Lab Assignments:

Students are required to complete sixteen (16) lab credits (hours) over the course of the semester.

The lab component is an integral part of this writing course. Over the course of the semester, you will need to complete a combination of assignments from the list below. This lab work is not the same as regular coursework that you must complete to stay on track in the class; these are, instead, designed to be additional writing-focused activities which will help improve your writing throughout the term. You will need to provide evidence of completing these lab requirements in order to receive credit for completing them.

Lab Options*:

Below is a list of acceptable lab assignments. You may provide a more specific list to your students, but any additions should be vetted through the associate dean and/or the discipline lead. Please note that this list is a work in progress.

- Office visit with professor
- Writing Center visit
- Writing Center workshop
- Raps session with reference librarian (by appointment only & only ONE per semester)
- Library workshop (must be scheduled with a librarian) or online library tutorial
- eLC Canvas tutorials (visit the eLC webpage for list of resources)
- Study skills seminar (search “study skills seminar” on Collin.edu for seminars and dates)
- Campus-based tutoring (search “tutoring” on Collin.edu for options)
- Grammar and/or writing exercises/quizzes from the Testing Center
- Peer review of paper (outside of class)
- Additional writing assignments or revision activities (annotating an article, keeping a writing journal, revision practice on a paper, etc.) (must be approved by your instructor)
- College familiarity assignment (find the library, the Counseling Center, the Writing Center)
- Collin website familiarity assignment (find the webpage for eLC, final exam schedule, library resources, etc.)
