Attendance Policy:

Because each class period will consist of a mixture of lecture, discussion, group work, and freewriting, your thoughtful, attentive, and active participation is essential (and will form a portion of your grade). If you sleep, engage in non-class-related activities, or interfere with your classmates' ability to learn you will be counted absent for that day. Be on time—class will start promptly. Leaving early will count as an absence.

Attendance is absolutely crucial to your success in Eng 1301. I encourage you to come to every class meeting; otherwise, you will miss a great deal of information and material you need to succeed in this course. Therefore, there are no excused absences (emergencies will be considered on a case by case basis). Each student is allowed three (3) missed classes, no questions asked. Save them for when you really need them. Each additional absence above the noted three will cause 1 point to be deducted off your final letter grade for the semester.

Dual-credit students are responsible for providing documentation when missing class for school activities.

Tardies: Three (3) tardies will result in one (1) unexcused absence for the course. I will consider you absent if you arrive more than 5 minutes late to class.

If a student misses 8 or more classes, the student will receive a failing grade for the course.

Make-Up Or Late Work:

If an assignment is turned in late, or after the due date, only half credit, or 50%, for that particular assignment is possible. After one week, the student will not receive credit for that assignment.

Recycled papers from other courses are not allowed, and will receive a failing grade if submitted.

Note: Any writing you submit for this course (including “rough” or preliminary “drafts”) will be subjected to scrutiny for academic and scholastic dishonesty.

Note: Please do not use cell phones during class time—either turn all electronics off or on silent.

Note: Laptops can only be used with permission only.

Classroom Etiquette:

Please treat each other and the instructor with respect. Be aware of the written and/or verbal policies the instructor includes in the syllabus or says in class. As you would wish to be treated, so treat others. In other words, by following the rules, you will be more successful and less frustrated with your instructor and fellow students (and better prepared for university and/or business life).

Thank you for your attention. It is noticed and appreciated by your instructor and fellow students.

Book Responses: Students will read a book of their choosing throughout the semester from a list that will be provided. Every few weeks, students will turn in a short response to a question about their book that will be announced in class or on Canvas. There will be 5 responses in total, 20 points each.

Vocabulary: An important part of good writing includes vocabulary development. Each day a few words will be given to students. Keep a list! Approximately 3 vocab quizzes (20 points each) will take place throughout the semester, and dates are noted in the calendar.

Conferences/Portfolio: Students will sign-up for two different conferences. For each conference, students will prepare a 1-page, typed response (50 points each). Afterwards, students will complete a portfolio (originals with revisions) to be turned in at the end of the semester for 50 points. Please note the due dates in the course calendar.

Homework: Homework will be announced in class with due dates. Also, rough drafts for peer-review will be assigned for this grade.

Lab: The lab component is an integral part of this writing course. Over the course of the semester, you will need to complete at least two selections from the list below. This lab is not the same as regular daily course work that you must complete to stay on track in the class; it is, instead, designed as additional writing-focused activities that will help improve your writing throughout the term. During the semester, you will need to track and provide evidence (hard-copy) of completing these lab requirements outside of class. 25 points each.
